Latin and Greek on His Tongue, He Objected to Menial Service. Atlantic Monthly

The greatest indecorum of our modern reading room is to work in shirt sleeves, but the simplicity of those days thought nothing of the almost universal "chaw" of tobacco, and, what is worse, if I may be pardoned a legal phrase, provided no receiver for the ensuing ilquidation. Cleaning anything was apparently the last idea of the janitor of Dane Hall, Cambridge. This functionary, for a generation or more, was an extraordinary specimen named Sweetman. Born and bred for a parish priest in Ireland he had come to this country and fallen upon evil days, being glad to get a job at street digging.

President Quincy, passing one day, was amazed to see a red head over the second of the se The greatest indecorum of our mod-

President Quincy, passing one day, was amazed to see a red head emerge from a trench and quote in excellent Latin the ines from the Bucolics concerning the pleasures of the husbandman. He took the orator into his own service, but finding him perhaps too much of a handful, turned him over to the law school. Here he became an autocrat. His prodessional duties, as popularly under-stood, he limited to opening the doors in the morning and locking them at hight. He was deeply aggrieved if asked even to replace library books left of the ta-bles, and seizing on the maxim so fre-quently used in torts modified it to suit his own purpose, thus: "Sig uter librihis own purpose, thus: "Sic utere libris

Subsequently gave the speaker the beneth of his criticism, on both delivery and doctrine. He exercised a general supervision over all matters connected with the school, and in his later years
